HARRIMAN AND FRICK

SOUGHT TO EXILE HIM

Pettied Son Tells How He Came From College to $30,000 Job and

How He Was Used by

Smarter Men.

New York, Nov. 14.—James Hazen Hyde, former vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance society, whose resignation followed the sensational disclosures in that company last spring, which led to the investigation of the insurance companies' methods by the Armstrong committee of the legislature, the man whose presence as a witness before this committee had been looked forward to in the expectation that it would produce the greatest sensation of the investigation, appeared before the committee today.

Mr. Hyde's manner on the stand was one of composure and deliberation, and his replies to questions from counsel were calm and deliberate and oftentimes studied. He was fortified with statements and data, and was very frank in his explanations. Frequently he would become bitter in his reference to some of his associates, while his entire testimony was of deep interest and cleared up many points that have heretofore remained in the dark. It was not until late in the day that the sensational features of his testimony were developed.

Mr. Hyde was called to the stand shortly after the session opened this morning, and he was under examination all day until a few minutes before adjournment was taken.

In anticipation of his presence as a witness there was a greater crowd than has attended the sessions of the committee heretofore, and extra police were stationed in the corridor without the committee room to keep order.

The Alexander loan. Mr. Hyde cleared up the matter of the $625,000 loan of the Mercantile Trust company which appeared on the books of the Equitable Life under the caption of the "J. W. Alexander No. 3 account." This account has been under investigation on several previous occasions, but none of the witnesses heretofore examined had been able to explain it.

Mr. Hyde first heard of this account in the fall of 1902 when it was called to his attention by President Alexander who said that he and Mr. Jordan had incurred the loan to take up stock that was being bid up to the detriment of the company; to settle suits that were hampering the business of the society, and for campaign contributions. This contribution was the one to the last campaign and was asked by Mr. Rick, who suggested that it was for the benefit of the society. To procure this money Mr. Alexander had Mr. Hyde write a letter to the president of the Mercantile Trust company, and this letter practically placed him in the position of a guarantor.

Later, when the settlement of the loan was forced, Mr. Alexander said Mr. Jordan was the one to take up the loan. The stock purchased with part of the loan was sold to Thomas F. Ryan for $212,000 and the balance, $212,500 Mr. Hyde paid personally. He did this because he understood that Mr. Alexander was financially embarrassed, and in a bitter tone said:

"Notwithstanding the strained relations with these men (Alexander and Jordan), I felt bound to see that the debt was liquidated, by reason of the letter Mr. Alexander extracted from me."

Great Valuable Property. Mr. Hyde said that he first received a salary of $20,000, seven years ago. In 1902, when he became chairman of the finance committee, this was advanced to $25,000 and in 1903 it was advanced to $100,000, at which it remained until he resigned as vice president of the society.

Mr. Hyde presented a statement showing that in the seven years of his connection with Equitable Life and the allied corporations, his average income had been only a little more than $35,000 a year. This was figured as seven years' salary from the Equitable, amounting to $245,000, from which he deducted his losses in syndicate transactions, amounting to $28,615, and the $212,500 paid on the $625,000 loan which left a balance of $187,884, or an average annual income of $27,697, to which was added the average income from his offices in the trust companies of $10,500. The witness said he presented this statement to show that he had been misrepresented.

Didn't Know Legislative Agent. The instructions of Mr. Jordan to A. C. Fiebig, the "legislative generalissimo," as Mr. Hughes referred to him today, Mr. Hyde knew nothing about. He said he never consulted with Mr. Jordan about legislative matters and that none of the legislative measures affected him or his interests in any way.

The syndicate operations of J. H. Hyde and associates were gone into very thoroughly and it was shown that

DEAD CASHIER KEPT DUPLICATE BOOKS

Secret Accounts of the Enterprise Bank Showing Details of Crooked Transactions To Be the Basis of Government's Criminal Prosecutions.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 14.—If the latest reports concerning the Enterprise bank are true, Receiver Cunningham is in possession of a duplicate set of books kept by persons in the bank between August 25 last, when the federal examination was made, and the day the bank closed its doors. This information comes from one of the directors of the Enterprise bank, who appeared to be surprised that no mention had been previously made of this incident in the examination of the bank's accounts.

The finding of the books was some days subsequent to the suicide of Cashier Clark, and a perusal of them has been of invaluable assistance in tracing to their source many of the fraudulent financial transactions that wrought the wreck of the bank. It is said Examiner Mosley carried with him to Washington a complete copy of these accounts, and upon them the federal government will base its criminal suits.

Just who will be hit by this contemplated action is a matter of conjecture. The presumption is that Clark had not sole knowledge of these books, and was not the only person who made entries in them. It is known that certain employees of the Enterprise bank have been compelled to secure the receiver by giving judgment notes and making real estate transfers.

Inquiry into the reason for this elicits the information that these employees secured loans from the bank that have not yet been met. What the sums aggregate is not known, but Receiver Cunningham insisted that these loans be insured by notes and property transfers of equivalent value.

DOCK WILL GO THROUGH SUEZ

CANAL COMPANY WILL CHARGE GOVERNMENT $25,000 FOR PASSAGE.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The navy department has been informed that the charges of the Suez Canal company for the passage through the Suez canal of the floating dry dock built for the Philippines will be about $20,000 or $25,000. This caused the department to give favorable consideration to the Suez, and in fact all preparations now being made for towing the big dock around the world to the Asiatic station contemplate that route. The work is being hurried on the colliers Caesar and Brutus and the supply ship Glacier which are being fitted with towing machinery.

CARLSBAD DELEGATION CALLS ON THE PRESIDENT

Washington, Nov. 14.—A non-partisan delegation from New Mexico called on the president today to discuss with him the proposed sale to the government of an irrigation project in the Pecos valley, N. M. The delegation consisted of Judge A. A. Freeman, W. A. Finlay, C. L. Ballard, A. H. Howe, C. E. McLaughlin and F. M. Tracey. They are urging the secretary of the interior to buy the plant which has been built near Carlsbad to irrigate the Pecos valley. The dam and its contingent system were constructed by private individuals at a cost of $750,000. Last spring a flood carried away part of the dam and left the reservoir practically dry. The farms, orchards, vineyards and gardens, which were irrigated by the system are threatened with total destruction unless the dam is rebuilt. The delegation proposes to sell the entire plant to the government for $150,000.

It is also asked that rangers be provided to keep such water free from pollution. All were referred to the committee.

President of the Phelps-Dodge interests, of Arizona, invited the entire congress to become his guests by special train for Bisbee and Douglas.

Griscom, now United States minister to Japan, is scheduled to succeed Mr. Pierce as third assistant secretary of state. No official information was obtainable today in regard to these reported changes or others reported to be in prospect in the diplomatic service.

M., Nov. 14.—No trace has been found of the little three-year-old son of Leandro Maestas, who wandered away during a snow storm last Wednesday into the wild country north of the Hot Springs canyon. There is no longer any doubt that the child was frozen to death.

The canyons are banked with snow, some of the drifts being deep and it is believed that the body is concealed under some one of these.

PEASANTS ARMED TO PROTECT THEIR HOMES

Warsaw, Nov. 14.—At Pultusk, in this government the peasants have organized for the purpose of driving out or lynching the thieves who took advantage of the present disturbances to loot and plunder. The lynchings have killed and even fearfully mutilated twenty of the thieves.

Several newspaper men were arrested in Warsaw by the police, who searched their offices.

Protestants against the declaration of martial law gathered at Lutting last night and were fired on by the infantry. Many persons were wounded.

POLICEMEN MADE RICH HATS DURING THE WILD DAYS

Odesa, Nov. 14.—Considerable unrest continues to pervade this city. Looting and attacks on individuals are reported to have occurred in various quarters. Education of the Masses. St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—The town council of St. Petersburg is taking the lead in the political education of the masses by inaugurating a series of public lectures, at which the new order of things is explained to the people. The object of the meetings is to allay the hostility between the various classes by showing the benefit accruing to all from the grant of liberties.

Word reaches Count Witte that in some regions the reactionaries who are seeking to make the new regime odious by spreading reports among the peasants in the country and lower classes of the city that the imperial manifesto is a forgery, issued by a camarilla of reactionaries, of which Count Witte is the head, and who hold the emperor prisoner in the palace.

Such stories circulated among the ignorant peasantry are apt to prove almost as dangerous now as they did when the peasantry rose to support Puzhatchev, who claimed to be Peter III., called on the people to overthrow Catherine II. The clergy throughout the country, under instructions from the Holy Synod, are doing all in their power to counteract the effect of such pernicious reports in the churches and explain the real meaning of the reforms.

McGraw Will Go South. New York, Nov. 14.—John J. McGraw, has given up the idea of taking the Giants to California for training the coming spring has redetermined to go either to Savannah or Memphis.

ALBUQUERQUE SPIRIT AGAIN SEES THE FAIR ON ITS FEET

MASKED MEN ROB AGENT AT WILLARD

Trio of Bandits Poke Guns Into Face of Santa Fe Central Agent and Relieve Him of $225 in Cash—Bloodhounds on the Trail.

Special to the Morning Journal. Willard, N. M., Nov. 14.—J. E. Wilson, agent here for the Santa Fe Central railroad, was held up by bandits late last night and robbed of $225 of company funds.

There is no safe in the station and it is necessary for the agent to take his funds to his home, about a hundred yards from the station. Late last night at 11:15 o'clock a man was leaving the office for the night, he was met at the door by three masked men armed with pistols. Two of them covered him with their guns, while the third went through his pockets, relieving him of his money bag containing about $225 belonging to the railroad company and the Wells Fargo Express company.

After relieving him of his money bag and valuables, the bandits forced Wilson to walk about a mile and a half south on the railroad track when they ordered him to return alone with instructions not to look back.

All three of the men who masked and the one who did the talking for the trio spoke with a decided German accent.

Dick Huber, of the mounted police, and the railroad officer with Sheriff Sanchez arrived on a special train afternoon from Santa Fe. They have a pair of bloodhounds with them from the penitentiary, and have taken the trail. No clue has yet been found.

JEMEZ PUEBLO OUT OF BUSINESS; GOVERNOR AND MEDICINE MAN IN JAIL

Indians Monkey With the United States Mail Heartless Pale Face Officers Arrest the Whole Bunch.

There is weeping and wailing and gnashing of molars in the picturesque Jemez Indian pueblo in the Jemez mountains. The cause of the lamentation which is both public and private, is found in the work of Deputy United States Marshals Harry Cooper and Fred Fornoff, who arrived in Albuquerque yesterday morning having in custody the governor of the village, the lieutenant governor thereof, and the cacique, or in Indian, the master of the Estufa, or underground smoke-house, and the most powerful man in the pueblo.

The Indians, in fact the entire Jemez pueblo, is charged with holding up the United States mails. The Indians are not charged with trying to rob the mails, but merely with holding them up.

It all came about in this wise. Last summer while the Indians were holding some dances of especially sacred and sacred nature, the United States mail wagon from Bernadillo was seen jolting up the trail. The trail leads right through the pueblo and the Indians had visions of a white man seeing the whole show. It wouldn't do and the governor issued a proclamation ordering his subjects to promptly arrest and detain the United States mail carrier until the ceremony should have been finished. The mail carrier was detained.

It is a rather serious matter to detain the United States mail even when it is only a star route bound for Jemez Springs in New Mexico, but the Indians didn't know. They are just beginning to find it out and there is deep sorrow in the experience. The Indians were indicted by the late United States grand jury sitting here. The jury didn't know and couldn't find out the particular Indians who held up the mail, but it found out that it was done on orders of the village government, so the jury promptly indicted the village government.

Officers Fornoff and Cooper made the trip to the pueblo Saturday returning yesterday morning. They found the governor and his associates gathered indifferent to warrants and subpoenas, but when a little persuasion was used the official jaw dropped and the official household prepared itself to move. It is just now residing in the Bernadillo county jail pending the sitting of the United States court here next month.

Cacique Couldn't Understand. It is the custom of the Indian department to send a representative of the United States marshal's office to all of the Indian dances and fiestas to maintain order, the services of the officer often being needed to stop small disturbances. In this case the officers who went to Jemez had a double mission. They were to attend the dance and bring in the village government.

With Superintendent Clinton J. Crandall of the Santa Fe Indian school, the officers arrived in Jemez Saturday in time for the famous harvest dance, one of the most sacred and impressive of the New Mexico Indian ceremonies. Mr. Fornoff describes it as one of the most impressive Indian ceremonies he ever witnessed. It was not deemed advisable to take any action before the dance, but immediately after the ceremony the governor of the village, Jose Ray China, was asked to join the officers in a little trip to Albuquerque. The governor is wise and made no objection. The lieutenant governor and secretary to his excellency Santiago Naha, was then approached and also consented without trouble, when it came to Casiqui Jose Manuel Yeba, the most powerful man of the village, an old man and for years the leader and official religious head of the pueblo, he trouble commenced. Yeba did not want to come. His dignity was offended and he almost declined, but the officers made their request more urgent and he finally consented. The old high priest of the tribe attempted to carry his gun with him on the trip but this was forbidden. He was ugly all the way across and is still deeply grieved.

WHOLE CORPS OF OFFICERS ELECTED

Insist on Serving Without Any Pay.

McCANN AND ROSENWALD ARE TO DO THE WORK

All Kinks Smoothed Out And Success for 1906 Insured at Meeting of Committee of Fifteen.

The fair association has landed on its feet, squarely on its feet, its head up and eyes glued to the biggest success in the history of Albuquerque and the association, for the fair of 1906.

A group of Albuquerque men, the very men who would have been elected by a general vote of the city for the positions they are to fill, have come forward to take command, agreeing under certain very reasonable conditions to undertake the enormous burden of hard work and the heavy responsibility connected with the management of the fair WITHOUT ONE CENT OF PAY FROM THE ASSOCIATION OR ANY OTHER SOURCE. Indeed this condition, of no pay for any officer of the fair, is one of the stipulations upon which these men have agreed to take the lead and the management.

P. F. McCanna has agreed to take the position of general manager of the fair of 1906.

Dave Rosenwald has agreed to take the position of secretary of the fair of 1906.

Upon them will devolve the active management. The conditions upon which their acceptance rests will be fulfilled at once without the shadow of a doubt. A full set of officers has been chosen and every one of them will accept.

Long studies have been taken toward meeting the deficit of 1904 and 1905, the first thing to which the new officers will turn their attention.

Traction park has been turned over to the fair association for the week of the next fair without a single restriction.

President Greer and Secretary Sellers of the fair of 1905 have come forward with a proposal to relinquish their claims for salary for their work this year.

The fair association has landed on its feet and things are going to move. Committee of Fifteen Names Officers.

Following out the instructions of the mass meeting of Monday night the committee of fifteen held a meeting last night at which the sub-committee reported a plan for selecting the officers for the coming fair. The committee went into full discussion of the situation. It found that there was nothing in the situation to discourage them and that there was everything in the situation to encourage the launching of plans for the biggest fair Albuquerque has ever had. Recognizing that a bigger subscription than ever before would have to be raised, raising the handicap of the existing deficit, the committee was still unanimous in its belief that the time has come for the New Mexico fair to grow. As a result the fair is going to grow. No more enthusiastic meeting of Albuquerque business men has ever been held than the little gathering of staunch and loyal citizens who got together last night.

As a result of its deliberations the following corps of officers have been named for the fair of 1906:

President—Hon. Solomon Luna.
Secretary—D. S. Rosenwald.
General Manager—P. F. McCanna.
Treasurer—M. W. Flounoy.
Vice Presidents—George L. Brooks, Herthold Spitz, George Arnold, O. N. Marron.

The position of general manager is a new one, but it is the position of all others in which P. F. McCanna should be placed. With his long and successful experience in managing the business of the fair, he is the one man for the place. There was no dissenting voice in the committee to this statement and there will not be a dissenting voice in Albuquerque or in New Mexico.

D. S. Rosenwald has been named by the subscribers of the fair for secretary. His naming again by the committee but proves that he is the man for the place. He knows how to work and how to get results. Upon Mr. McCanna and Mr. Rosenwald will fall the heaviest burden of the management. Both have agreed to accept provided that all officers elected last night accept. There is not a shadow of a doubt that the other officers will accept. Mr. Flounoy has accepted the treasurership. Mr. Spitz, Mr. Brooks and Mr. Arnold have agreed to act as vice presidents. Mr. Luna, elected president, is out of the city, but his friends agree that he will accept the position and that is believed to settle it. Mr. Marron is also out of the city, but his loyalty to Albuquerque is too well known to leave any doubt that he too will join with the others.

Another provision of the acceptance of the position by McCanna and Rosenwald is that no salary shall be paid to the officers or manager of the fair. In view of the fact that these two men are going to take the heavy end of the work, this provision of theirs looks reasonable. None of the other officers have shown any disposition to disagree.

The other provision upon which
